Ganderkese, Germany, April 25, 2018 – ATLAS successfully returns to the global market and celebrates its 8th anniversary with the international specialized audience in Paris.

Intermat in Paris is one of the most important global exhibitions in the machine construction sector. ATLAS GmbH will present a small part of the product range of proven but also new excavators and cargo cranes. For the first time, the latest addition to the versatile portfolio will be presented – mini and medium excavators from the 0.8 – 6-tonne class.

With its participation in the largest exhibition of construction machinery in France, ATLAS will present its renowned advantages: highly efficient specialized products developed and designed for the special needs of its customers worldwide. Whether it's recycling, excavation or mining, ATLAS GmbH always works in close cooperation with its partners around the world. Only in France, the manufacturer cooperates with 23 sales representatives that ensure a flexible sales and service network.

To celebrate the 8th anniversary of ATLAS's return to the market, numerous customers, sales representatives, suppliers and business partners from around the world will come to see the new products at the modern exhibition stand of the traditional German manufacturer.

The owner of the company Fil Filipov and the managing director Brahim Stitou have come in person for the construction of the exhibition stand to personalize the display of the exhibits and to be available for customers and business partners during the trade fair. ATLAS's corporate philosophy is targeted to the customer and has to respond to their wishes as much as possible. It is natural to invite customers and sales representatives from the manufacturing plants in Ganderkese, Vechta and Delmenhorst to ensure direct exchange about the design.

Following a successful restructuring of ATLAS GmbH, the owner Fil Filipov handed over the operational management to Mr. Stitou in 2014. Mr. Stitou has continued the successful concept seamlessly.

“We are very pleased with the number of visitors,” explains Brahim Stitou. “ATLAS’s employees have done an excellent job with our French contractors and have clearly fulfilled the purpose of our exhibition presence. Our products are well received in the international market. The premium quality of our machines and the high level of our services are valued around the world.
